三、題組測驗 48% (每題 3 分)

Do you know how to deal with stress? Here are some tips.

First, nothing and no one can make you feel stressed. So 27. If the situation cannot be changed, accept it for what it is. By accepting the situation and finding ways you can deal with it, stress will be reduced.

Second, 28. Be thankful for something else. For example, if your stress comes from your work, think of your health, family, or friends that make you glad and proud.

Third, relax, relax, and relax. In our busy everyday life, sometimes we forget to take care of ourselves. 29 and do it every day. Have a cup of tea or coffee. Watch your favorite show for 30 minutes. It really helps.

Last, look at your stress from a "big picture" point of view. Ask yourself: "Is it serious?" or "May it end my career or my life?" If the answer is no, 30. It is you that control the stress. Don't let stress control you.

Many people now are taking workcations. The word is from “work” and “vacation.” It is when you take a vacation and do some work for your office at the same time. You can work when you want to. For example, you can check your e-mails at the beach. Or, you can just sit and enjoy the beach. Workcations help people. When people are not in the office, their minds are clear. So, it’s easy for them to think and have new ideas.

People can work and have fun at the same time on workcations. They don’t get bored. Also, they have more energy to do things. However, some people don’t like workcations. For them, there’s still pressure to finish all the work. They also feel tired because they can’t have and enjoy a real vacation.

Workcations are good for some people, but they are also bad for others. That’s because everybody works in different ways. How about you? Do you want to mix your work and life together?

33. ( ) Who can take a workcation?

When you are down, what do you do to cheer yourself up? Exercise your body, watch funny videos, or just eat junk food? Maybe you can try listening to sad music. It might sound strange, but studies show that listening to sad music in fact makes you feel better.

Music affects your brain. When you listen to sad music, your brain lets out chemicals which will make you feel less worried or unhappy. Crying to a sad song is also useful. It gets your body into protecting mode and relaxes you. Lyrics help too. They are an important part of a song. A good songwriter can use words to tell a story that is close to your own experience and strike a chord in your heart. That's why the singer and songwriter Adele has touched so many hearts with her songs.

There are many ways to deal with sadness. Give them a try and find one that is best for you. No matter what you choose, remember it's OK to feel sad. What you are going to do about it is more important.

mode 模式 strike a chord 引起共鳴 sadness 悲傷 no matter 無論

38. ( ) What does "lyrics" mean?
 (A) The notes of a song. (B) The words in a song.
 (C) The writer of a song. (D) The story behind a song.
39. ( ) Four students wrote down their thoughts on this reading. Who truly understands its main idea?
 (A) Megan:
 I agree with the writer. Listening to sad songs will make you feel sadder.
- (B) Jordan:
 I like this reading. I don't want my family and friends to worry about me, so I'll try my best to hide my sad feelings.
- (C) Amelia:
 I totally understand the writer's points on music. That's why I plan to be a songwriter when I grow up. I want to bring joy to people.
- (D) Owen:
 I tried listening to sad songs when I'm sad, but it didn't work for me. It's fine though. I found another way that works.
 That's the point, isn't it?

COVID-19 has been part of our daily vocabulary for almost a year now. People everywhere have had to adjust to a lot of different things, such as washing their hands more often and wearing a mask just about everywhere.

Some smart entrepreneurs have found a way to make money during this time. They have either created new products, or different versions of the ones we're already familiar with. The most creative products coming out right now seem to be different kinds of masks.

There are clear plastic masks that allow you to see a person's whole face. There are masks with pictures or cartoon characters on them that can show off someone's fun and silly side. And now, you can even buy a scented mask.

Hormel Foods is a company in the U.S that makes bacon products. They have recently jumped into the mask market with their Black Label Breathable Bacon bacon-scented mask. Why not breathe in the delicious scent of bacon while protecting yourself during the pandemic?
